

PREMIER HEALTHCARE NOW OFFERS COVID-19 ANTIBODY TESTING.

What is COVID-19 antibody test?

An antibody test looks for the presence of antibodies, which are specific proteins made in response to infections. Antibodies can be found in the blood of someone who is tested after infection and show if the person has had an immune response to the infection. Antibody test results are especially important for detecting previous COVID-19 infection in people who had few or no symptoms.

Who should get tested?

Antibody test is recommended for anyone who has been sick in the past six months with gastrointestinal illness, flu-like symptoms, respiratory illness, or fever. It is also recommended for people who tested positive for COVID-19 and have recovered.

Testing available at clinics on Remsen Street and Nostrand Avenue in Brooklyn, in Midtown Manhattan, and in Bayside, Queens.
